but I know that taking a month to respond makes it harder still. I really / honestly don't mean to.

Replying to me does not seem to be very important to him.

I like what Mandy says about having the emotional energy to reply...

but friendship is a two-way street and she needs to put some energy / work / commitment in it.

Priya isn't her PA and shouldn't be expected to follow her all the time.

My best friend Phoebe is obsessed with vindictiveness and it has separated us.

She waits, and then she hits.

I'm not saying she didn't have a good reason for her actions.

That notion makes me laugh.

I don't like being described as vindictive.

We have just had a friend from university ...

I try to understand her feelings about her concentration issues.

... but my boyfriend and best friend seem to think it's a mutual experience.

... or read the summary of the film and share facts.

I also have word retrieval problems and dyslexia.

I tell everyone that having a cat is awesome.

She thinks I should want to kiss the cat all the time too, and really doesn't understand my unwillingness.

Looking back, I think I was being primed to accept the idea of having pets.

... and she has always been very curious.

It's arbitrary and Darryl is not consistent with his attitude.

Georgia is guilty for laughing at and not respecting Darryl's limits.

He clearly loves Ethel.

The smell is intense, persistent and makes me feel sick.

I also think it influences the vibe of a shared space.

I also find it triggering because the smell makes me think of of a really tough time in my life.

I don't want Rasheeda to feel uneasy.

but I don't think it's inappropriate to ask her
